PREFACE

The wood-using and related industries of Texas are important factors in the economic makeup of the state. While the timber resource is limited principally to the East Texas counties, the economic impact of its growth, sale, manufacture, and income production has a profound influence upon the remainder of the state. In this revision, many wood-using industries outside of the East Texas counties have been included since, though scattered, they exert economic impact upon their communities. Inquiries received from company representatives, foresters, equipment manufacturers, chambers of commerce, and others associated with the wood-using industries have made it increasingly clear that a directory of the type presented here has a definite function to perform.

Though a determined effort was made to locate all active organizations, some may have been overlooked. Failure to list a firm, therefore, is no reflection upon its activities, and inclusion does not constitute an endorsement. The author would appreciate notification of omissions or errors so that future directories can be of greater service to the people and the industries of Texas.

Appreciation is expressed to the Texas Forest Service for their splendid cooperation, to the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas at Austin for support and assistance, and to Stephen F. Austin State University for making the time available to complete this undertaking.

HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

The Directory of Wood-Using and Related Industries in Texas is divided into four sections:

1. Alphabetical Section
2. Geographical Section
3. Product Section
4. Product Index

The Alphabetical Section is a complete alphabetical listing of the plants included in this directory. Only the firm name and city location are given; for complete address and information on each plant, refer to the Geographical Section.

The Geographical Section is arranged alphabetically by cities. Under each city the plants are listed alphabetically by firm name. The county in which each city is located appears with the city name heading. The cities in each of the standard metropolitan statistical areas, as designated in the 1960 Census and as revised in 1968, are grouped alphabetically with the chief city of the area. Each city is also cross-indexed in its proper alphabetical location. The Zip Code follows the mailing address, and the employee group code is given in brackets after the Zip Code. The following employee groups are used:

1—under 8	6—250 to 499
2—8 to 24	7—500 to 999
3—25 to 49	8—1,000 to 4,999
4—50 to 99	9—5,000 and over
5—100 to 249

The Product Section is arranged in numerical order by product code. The product classification is based on the latest revised Standard Industrial Classification compiled and published by the Bureau of the Budget, Executive Office of the President. Some modifications have been made in order to provide additional detail. The cities of the metropolitan areas are grouped alphabetically with the chief city of the area. Each plant entry includes the name of the firm, mailing address (including Zip Code), and the employee code in brackets.

The Product Index provides additional detail on the specific products included under each Standard Industrial Classification code.
